Kentucky coal miners experience fewer work-related injuries and illness than the average Kentucky worker.

According to the US Department of Labor, coal mining in Kentucky has less injury and illness than transportation, warehousing, construction, manufacturing, agriculture and health care.

When it comes to coal mining, safety is no accident. In fact, it’s our top priority.